MEMORANDUM TO HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

We wish to draw your personal attention to the subject of summer temporary employment in the Washington area.

Properly planned and carried out, a program for summer employment of high school and college students can be a source of effective manpower for the Federal Government as well as an opportunity to provide students with a valuable insight into the workings and problems of the Federal Government. If, on the other hand, the program is not well handled, it can result in inefficiency, poor use of public funds, and unrewarding experiences for these young people.

On the whole, we believe the advantages to the Government of continuing the program for summer employment outweigh criticisms which have at times been raised. It should be clear, however, that in every case summer employment has a purpose and reflects a need on the part of the employing agency. In general, the employment of students during the summer should follow the same critical standards of need, selection, and placement which apply to other hirings.

Particular care should be taken to assure that summer student employees are afforded genuine opportunities to observe the processes of government, that they derive the maximum benefit from their experience, and that they are given conscientious and interested supervision, to the end that even though they may not choose a government career they will carry over insights into the problems and operations of the Federal Government which will make them better citizens.

In order to accomplish these objectives, each agency should have a definite plan for summer employment in the Washington area, reflecting its needs, workloads, and staffing objectives. It should include provision for the orientation and supervision of student employees. It should ensure that each summer student employee will have a definite assignment which will occupy him fully and productively.

Dear Lyman

It was very thoughtful of you to write as you did January 8. It would be exceedingly helpful to the Commissioners and to the Executive Director to have a session with you and to learn more about the functions and operations of your organization. I have felt that through lack of knowledge the Commission has not been able to assist the Agency as fully as possible or to represent it with respect to Government-wide personnel policies.

I have checked with Fred Lawton, Bob Hampton, and Warren Irons as to a mutually convenient date and we join in accepting your invitation for lunch and a visit and suggest as a possible time Tuesday, January 29. Please call me and let me know whether this is a time which is convenient for you.

Looking forward to further productive association with you,

Sincerely yours,

John W. Macy, Jr.
Chairman

Dear John:

Thank you for your letter of 14 January concerning lunch. We will look forward to Tuesday, the 29th, and are delighted that you and Messrs. Lawton, Hampton and Irons will be joining us. I would suggest an early lunch at about 12:30 and will follow this with a briefing on the organization of the Agency and on our personnel management and career service program. We will make the briefing short and tailored primarily toward providing a base for questions to follow. Our time will be your time in this regard, and we will be delighted to spend as much time as you can spare on it, but we will generally tailor it for wind-up at about 2:00 and questions can go on indefinitely.

Looking forward to the 29th. With very best wishes as always.

Sincerely yours,

Lyman B. Kirkpatrick

Dear Mr. Macy:

It was a pleasure to see you at the meeting of the Executive Officers' group at the Airlie Foundation, and I wanted to let you know how much I enjoyed your comments that evening. It occurred to me that at an early date you, perhaps with the other commissioners and Warren Irons, might like to come out and get a glimpse of the Agency building for lunch and to renew acquaintances with some of our senior officers with whom the Commission has frequent dealings. It would give me real pleasure to give you a briefing on our organization and functions.

With very best wishes.

Mr. John W. Macy, Jr.
Chairman, United States
Civil Service Commission
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. Macy:

In Mr. McCone's absence from Washington, I am writing to STAT thank you for [redacted] of August 13, 1962, extending an invitation to [redacted] to participate in the Financial Management Conference scheduled for September 23-27, 1962.

STAT Under ordinary circumstances, I should be only too glad to make [redacted] available for this conference which I know that he personally would be very glad to attend. Unfortunately, the conference coincides with what will be a period of rather intense budgetary activity for this Agency. The formulation of our budget, which is in any event a complex process, will be further complicated this year as a result of a number of changes in the Agency's organization and management. It would, therefore, be very difficult for us at this particular time to deprive ourselves of [redacted] services, even to participate in this very important conference.

STAT It is a source of sincere regret both to me and to [redacted] personally that he will not be able to attend the meeting. Both he and the Agency sincerely appreciate your invitation and hope that Mr.
[redacted] participation in similar meetings can be arranged in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Honorable John A. McCone
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. McCone:

I am pleased to invite [redacted] of your office to participate with me in the second Financial Management Conference, scheduled for September 23-27, 1962. This conference, instituted by the Civil Service Commission last September, has proved to be a valuable opportunity for Federal agency controllers and other high financial officials to explore the developments in their field.

The program was designed in cooperation with a distinguished advisory committee and representatives of the conferee group. Its major emphasis will be on managerial foresight, including the process of forecasting and planning for future conditions and program needs, anticipation of emerging financial management problems, and ways of meeting the increasing demands on organizations and the people in them. Mr. David E. Bell will be among the eminent discussion leaders who will deal with these topics.

The conference sessions will be held from Sunday evening, September 23, through 2 p.m. on Thursday, September 27, at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. Residential arrangements at the Carvel Hall, adjacent to the Academy gate, will assure a maximum opportunity for interchange among conferees and freedom from distractions. Participating agencies will be asked to share the administrative expenses of the conference, estimated at $125 for each of the 25 participants, along with normal residential costs.

Would you let me know before August 27 whether [redacted] can attend? Additional information about the conference may be obtained from the Director of Management Institutes in the Office of Career Development (Code 129, extension 3255).

Sincerely yours,

John W. Macy, Jr.
